

LIBERATING AFRICA FROM PHARMACEUTICAL COLONIALISM

ARV Drugs as Strategic Tools to Cement the Political and Economic Dependency of Africa and the Developing World Exposure of the Drug Multinationals' Chemical and Psychological "War on Africa" As Key to Terminate Pharmaceutical Colonialism

ACTION of Democratic Forces

REACTION by Pharma Drug Cartel

CONSEQUENCES for the People of Africa

1950

POLITICAL FREEDOM OF AFRICAN NATIONS

Between 1951 and 1966 no less than 35 African Nations and hundreds of millions of African people became politically independent from their colonial rulers. However, the economic dependency from the empires largely remained.

Yet this political freedom gave rise to expectations and efforts by the people of Africa and their governments that they can achieve a more just world, where food, health and education was a right to all and not a privilege for a few. The precondition to achieve this world was a more just distribution of the resources and wealth in the developing nations and beyond.

1960

UN CHARTER OF ECONOMIC INDEPENDENCE

- December 19, 1972 towards that goal, the UN authorises the preparation of "UN Charter on Economic Rights and Duties of States"*
- December 14, 1974 120 nations pass the "UN Charter" proclaiming for developing nations the basic right to:
 - economic independence
 - ownership of natural resources
 - nationalise property of transnationals
 - freedom from political and economic coercion by industrialised nations.*

http://daccessdds.un.org/doc/RESOLUTION/GEN/NR0738/83/IMG/NR073883.pdf?OpenElement

1970

1975

1980

April 18, 1980: Zimbabwe gains political independence – while efforts of colonial powers to maintain economic dependency prevailing.*

1990

Political independence was now also gained by the last African countries – located in the most disputed parts of the continent – the mineral and oil rich South:

- March 21, 1990: Namibia
- April 27, 1994: South Africa

2000

Only after the ARV-Africa strategy of the drug cartel was fully in place did they agree to release these "crown jewels" into political freedom. The drug cartel's plan: the devastating human and economic consequences of its "chemical warfare" with highly toxic ARVs could be used to destabilise the country – and allow continued economic and political control.

2005

For nearly a decade, the South African government, namely President Thabo Mbeki and health minister Dr. Manto Tshabalala Msimang have alerted the people of Africa and the world about the toxic side effects of ARV drugs and the growing influence of the pharmaceutical business in Africa.

With South African participation and leadership, the World Health Organisations and other UN bodies have passed various landmark resolutions recommending good nutrition – including fruits and vegetables rich in micronutrients – as the basis of public health strategies in the fight against AIDS.*

2007

March 2007: Publication of the book "End AIDS – Break the Chains of Pharmaceutical Colonialism" exposes the deceptive schemes by which the drug cartel has infiltrated African societies and exposes the genocidal consequences of "pharmaceutical colonialism" particularly for Africa and the developing world.* www.end-aids-business.org

2008

The world's largest community health programme involving more than 1,000 people affected by AIDS revealed that micronutrients are able to halt and reverse the symptoms of AIDS – without ARVs. Such findings – of course – had never been documented with ARV drugs. The results of this community health programme not only confirm this analysis about the role of ARVs, but also document the availability of effective natural health approaches in the fight against AIDS.*

BACKGROUND AND PRINCIPLES OF THE PHARMACEUTICAL DRUG CARTEL

During the first half of the 20th century the Rockefeller group became the world's largest stakeholder of the pharmaceutical investment business. The Rockefeller group has used the billions in revenues from its global oil business to strategically develop the pharmaceutical industry as an investment business – and the human body as a market. Today Rockefeller group controls the world markets in oil and pharmaceutical drugs.

For decades this pharmaceutical business has been the largest and most profitable investment business in the world. The founding principles of this business are: 1. the patentability of synthetic drugs, 2. the promotion of diseases as multi-billion dollar markets for these drugs and 3. deceptive marketing strategies that portray the pharmaceutical "business with disease" as providing health.

The key strategy to expand diseases as unlimited markets for drug sales are the toxic side-effects of ARVs and other drugs, which are known to the drug makers but deliberately hidden from the unaware public.

COUNTER STRATEGY OF OIL-DRUG CARTEL

• July 1973: David Rockefeller launches "Trilateral Commission" to coordinate global counter strategies of US, European and Japanese corporate interests.*

• September 22, 1973: Henry Kissinger becomes US-Secretary of State, i.e. minister of foreign affairs. Kissinger had been head of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund's "Special Studies Project" the goal of which was to "define the major problems and opportunities facing the U.S. and to develop principles which could serve as the basis of future national policy."*

The hallmarks of Kissinger's foreign policy were his strategic involvements in genocides around the world: Vietnam, Chile, Indonesia/East Timor and several African nations. These war crimes were committed to protect the global interests of the oil and drug cartel.*

• December 19, 1974: Nelson Rockefeller becomes US Vice President to help implement the global counter strategy from within the White House.*

THE 1974 KISSINGER REPORT - NSSM 200

April 24, 1974: "Kissinger Report": US National Security Advisor and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger signs the "National Security Study Memorandum 200" (NSSM 200).* It defines "population growth" in Africa and other developing regions as a "threat to US national security." "Population growth" stands for emancipation of the developing world as reflected by the process leading to the 1974 UN Charter on Economic Rights and Duties. "Threat to national security" stands for the "threat to the global interests of the oil and drug cartel."

Specific goals of the NSSM 200 were, amongst others:

- Securing [US] control over "mineral and fuel resources" in Africa and other developing regions.
- Maintaining political stability [for continued exploitation]
- Controlling population growth as a key measure to achieve the above goals

Specific recommendations of NSSM 200 included:

- "It is urgent that measures to reduce fertility be started and made effective in the 1970's and 1980's."
- "This plan will require vigorous efforts by interested countries. US leadership is essential."
- "Funding is available for countries considering long-term U.S. interests."*

– The NSSM 200 report was de-classified on July 3, 1989,* only after the ARV-Africa strategy was in place –

THE ARV BUSINESS WITH AIDS AS A PERFECT VEHICLE TO IMPLEMENT NSSM 200 AND RELATED STRATEGIES

Implementing such an unethical global policy was impossible – unless it was concealed: 1. It had to be presented to the world as a "responsible policy" to protect the future of our planet, and 2. it had to be dressed behind a medical or charitable veil. The AIDS epidemic that developed within a decade of "NSSM 200", provided the perfect vehicle to implement this strategy.

1. The AIDS epidemic affected primarily the target population of "NSSM 200" – i.e. the people in the developing world, and among them particularly those that lived in "mineral and fuel rich" parts of Africa.
2. Toxic ARV drugs represented the strategic tools to accomplish "population control" through "silent" chemical warfare of unprecedented proportions. Promoting these ARV drugs – that are known to destroy the immune system – to patients already suffering from immune deficiency /AIDS as "life-savers" was a perfect strategy to decimate the population under the deceptive veil of "modern medicine."* www.arv-facts.org
3. With the "chemical weapon" – ARV drugs – produced by the pharmaceutical drug cartel for mass deployment across the African continent, the only missing link was an army of willful or blind "cartel clowns" strategically positioned within African societies. These puppets of the drug cartel had no other role than to deceive the people of Africa and deploy these chemical weapons essentially to every African family under their "war cry:" "Free ARVs for all!"
4. The cartel and its stakeholders made sure that anyone who dared to lift the curtain of deception, whether president, minister, scientist, health professional, community worker or just anyone, is being "silenced" – so that they continue their "population control programme" with toxic ARV chemicals across Africa.

THE CURRENT POLITICAL STAKEHOLDERS OF THE OIL AND DRUG CARTEL PROPEL CHEMICAL WARFARE IN AFRICA

A quarter of a century later, the political stakeholders of the two leading drug exporting nations today, the US and UK, implement the policy recommendations of the Kissinger report, such as "this plan will require vigorous efforts by interested countries," at an accelerated pace:

1. George Bush's "PEPFAR": Since 2002, and under the deceptive term of "Presidential Emergency Plan for AIDS Relief," George Bush deviated 30 billion US dollars (CHECK) of US tax payer money to propel the oil and drug cartel's "population control plan" across the developing world.*
2. Tony Blair's "Marshal Plan for Africa": In 2005, Tony Blair, then Prime Minister of the UK, installed a so-called Commission on Africa. The multi-billion dollar "Marshal Plan for Africa" bankrolled by this Commission aims at further accelerating the "population control" programme through ARVs.*

THE OIL AND DRUG CARTEL DECLARES "WAR ON AFRICA" AND SEEKS THE OPEN RE-COLONIALISATION OF AFRICA

June 6-8, 2007: Fearing global exposure of its ARV fraud and – more importantly – of the "population control programme" behind it, the drug cartel hits back with an unprecedented campaign. At the 2007 G-9 summit in Germany the political stakeholders of the leading drug exporting nations declared open war on Africa. Under the deceptive title of "Growth and Responsibility in Africa"* they presented a 22 page document that demands the voluntary subjugation of all African governments, political parties, media, schools, police, even their armies under the control of the drug cartel, which is specifically named the document. Those African governments complying will be rewarded with a total of 60 billion dollars – those resisting will be overthrown.

In the meantime, the methods used in those "coup d'etats" have proven to be much the same as those used by the "Kissinger boys" to overthrow the government of Chile – including buying the leadership of trade unions and of other civil groups. The open re-colonisation of Africa by the oil and drug cartel has begun. Kenya, South Africa and Zimbabwe are just a few examples. The goal of the cartel is to replace the democratically elected governments with political puppets who voluntarily take over the "population control programme" with toxic ARVs from their masters. Thus, their position to ARVs allows the people of Africa to identify them.

OPEN COLONIALISM TOOK THE LIVES OF MILLIONS

For centuries the people of Africa and the developing world have paid devastating tribute to the insatiable greed of colonial empires and most recently of corporate multinationals. For centuries, millions of people in Africa have paid this greed with their lives.

The open violence of colonial suppression of the people and their liberation movements, however, became a liability during the 20th century. News pictures of massacres, torture and violence in the colonies repulsed the people in the "empire", ultimately forcing their governments to accept political independence of their colonies.

PHARMACEUTICAL COLONIALISM – STRANGULATING AFRICA BEHIND A SAMARITAN MASK

Being forced to relinquish political freedom to their colonies did neither decrease corporate greed nor its interest to continue satisfying it at the expense of the poorest and most vulnerable people of Africa.

To continue increasing their economic grip on Africa and the developing world, the oil and drug cartel developed a strategy, that allowed the continuation of the economic exploitation under new and deceptive strategies to keep control.

The most malicious and deadly strategy implemented was "pharmaceutical colonialism" – for it brought dependency and death under the fraudulent veil of Samaritans.

PHARMACEUTICAL COLONIALISM : CHEMICAL, BIOLOGICAL AND PSYCHOLOGICAL WARFARE AGAINST THE PEOPLE OF AFRICA

The oil and drug cartel knew that the full political and economic emancipation of the people of Africa and other parts of the developing world would end its rule over our planet. After 120 nations had passed the "UN Charter on Economic Rights and Duties of States" in 1974, these corporate interests also knew that the developing world was determined to end other forms of economic dependency.

The oil and drug interests retaliated by launching a war primarily against the people of Africa that was unprecedented in its scope of human death and economic devastation. Over the past quarter of a century, the pharmaceutical cartel and its stakeholders were leading a relentless chemical, biological and psychological war – and they defined the African continent as their main battle field:

- Chemical-Biological Warfare: Toxic ARV drugs are known to destroy the immune system of people. By taking these chemicals eventually millions of people are dying. Thus, ARVs can be considered as "chemical weapons" in this war. This is no surprise: entire classes of toxic drugs derive from chemical warfare agents (mustard gas) developed by BAYER for the mass killing of soldiers during WWI.*
- Psychological Warfare: To achieve its maximum impact in decimating people across Africa the "weapons" of this chemical warfare – ARV drugs – were concealed as "medicines." To top it all, these deadly ARV chemicals have been deceptively promoted as "life-savers" to millions of unaware people across Africa.*

Accomplices of genocide were the stakeholders of the pharmaceutical drug cartel in politics, the media and pharmaceutical medicine across Africa. The "storm troopers" of this psychological warfare were newly founded gangs – modelled after the terrorising "Brown Shirts" in Nazi Germany. Under the veil of "freedom fighters" these ARV pushers – amongst others financed by Rockefeller money – organised rented crowds for the drug industry and forced the governments across Africa to spend millions for toxic drugs that would eventually kill their own people by the million.*

LIBERATION FROM PHARMACEUTICAL COLONIALISM IS POSSIBLE – NOW!

Like any other fraud the drug cartel's "population control programme" with toxic ARVs in Africa can only prevail until the scam is being made public. With the publication of this fact sheet no one can say any longer "I did not know."

- For the people of Africa there now exists the possibility to free themselves from the devastating consequences of the drug cartel's chemical and psychological "War on Africa."
- For the governments of Africa there now exists the opportunity to fight back and to free the African continent from pharmaceutical colonialism and all other forms of dependency .

The time to act is now!

This chart is based on published scientific facts and referenced political documents: The scientific facts about the toxicity of ARV drugs are documented on the product information sheets of ARV drugs. Promoting ARV drugs that are known to damage and destroy the immune system of patients already suffering from immune deficiencies /AIDS has been an insult to human intelligence for two decades.* www.arv-facts.org

Why this genocide may have been accepted, nevertheless, was because it was inconceivable to the human mind anywhere that any interest group would be involved in literally organising a genocide by promoting toxic ARV drugs. Now the motives for such unethical actions have become intelligible: "Population control" – i.e. genocide in Africa and the developing world – to protect "national security" – i.e. global rule of the oil and drug cartel and protection of its profits.

The stakeholders of the drug cartel obviously developed a heinous strategy to keep control over the lives of the African people and their economies: They use deadly ARV drugs – under the false promise of "life-savers." Moreover, they make the people and the governments of Africa pay for importing the drugs that ultimately kill them. Because of its deceptive nature pharmaceutical colonialism is the most deadly among all forms of colonialism.